

THE ASQ-3™ FOR CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

The ASQ-3™ is a “developmental screening” or a list of questions that gives a quick check of how children are learning and growing. A developmental screening takes a look at how children are doing in important areas, such as communication, physical ability, social skills, and problem-solving skills. ASQ-3™ can show what a child is good at as well as any areas where they may need extra help or practice.

As a parent or caregiver, you know your child best! That's why the ASQ-3™ is made to be filled out by you. You will only need 10–15 minutes to answer the questions. It's that quick and easy.

Here's how the ASQ-3™ works:

- Answer each question “yes,” “sometimes,” or “not yet,” based on what your child is able to do now.
- To help you answer each question, you will do fun and simple activities with your child. Your child will play, move around, and practice day-to-day skills.
- After you complete the list of questions, a professional will review your responses and talk with you about what they learned. If there are no concerns about how your child is growing and learning, there is nothing more you will need to do. If your child needs help with some skills, your program will help you with next steps.

You play an important role in your child's learning and development. By completing ASQ-3™, you are making sure your child is off to a strong start!
